H. L. Patterson and H. R. Davis are the selections of the nominating committees for leadership of the Albany-Decatur Kiwanis club for the coming year.

Election of club officials will be held the first meeting night in December.

Committees serving in the selection of two tickets were: Committee 1—J. W. Clifton, C. W. Matthews, Henry Hartung; committee 2—W. W. Fussell, Frank G. Cook, H. M. Priest.

The following are the selections of committee 1: President, H. L. Peterson; first vice-president, T. A. Bowles; second vice-president, Arwin Draper; trustee, J. R. Daniel; directors, Charles Rountree, John White, J. H. McMath, Sam Malone and D. W. Speake.

The selections of committee No. 2 includes: President, H. R. Davis; first vice-president, T. M. Dix; second vice-president, John Patterson; trustee, N. F. Greenhill; directors, S. A. Lynne, L. R. Nash, Ben F. Martin, J. B. Harlowe, J. B. Cassels.

Under the leadership of A. A. Jones, present leader, the Kiwanis club has entered into a great many civic activities and has responded to numerous calls from these cities in whatever project needed aid.

At present the club is preparing for its annual Kiwanis minstrel which will be given December 16, the proceeds to go to the charity fund. The club is likewise greatly interested at this time in the opening of the curb market planned for Albany-Decatur in February. Speakers from the organization will be sent into the various sections of Morgan county to explain the curb market from the consumer standpoint and to urge that Morgan farmers produce sufficient salable varieties of food-stuffs to make the market a success from the beginning.

CHICAGO VISITOR
LIKES THE SOUTH

Elwell Praises The Land Of Cotton and Sunshine

H. H. Elwell, of Chicago, formerly managing editor of the Chicago Examiner, was in the Twin Cities today and expressed keen appreciation of the South on this, his initial visit.

Mr. Elwell is making a tour of the Southern territory for the International News Service which, it is rumored, plans the establishment of an Alabama bureau at an early date.

The visitor expressed surprise at the progress being made by the cities of Dixie and hoped that he would be able to return to the land of cotton and sunshine at an early date.

Depots Crowded;
Travel Is Heavy

Local railroad stations were crowded last night with Thanksgiving visitors arriving and departing. Football games in Birmingham and Nashville drew large North Alabama crowds and this being a great transfer point, the union station and streets adjacent were filled with travellers until a late hour.

BECKAS MAY RETURN

Gus Beckas, formerly of the Palace cafe, who has been spending sometime in Greece, is expected to return here before Christmas. Mr. Beckas made friends during his sojourn in the Twin Cities and he would receive a cordial welcome back to Albany-Decatur.

Lower Mercury
Prediction For Albany-Decatur

Bring in an extra scuttle or two of coal this evening. This is the warning of the weather man, who predicts a fall in temperature for Alabama this evening.

No forecast was made as to the possible extent of the cold wave, the weather prognosticator contenting himself with the brief: "Much colder tonight."

The cold wave will follow a period of unusually pleasant weather for this late in November, Thursday being one of the prettiest Thanksgiving Days in several years. While other cities were gripped by rain, most of the day here was warm and fair.

GARMENT PLANT TO BE REOPENED

Samples Being Made
Now For Spring
Season

The plant of the Stone Garment company will be reopened within a few days, after the new spring samples, now being prepared, are ready.

The plant, which opened four months ago, has concluded its fall season after enjoying an unusually good business. Within the past month a record of 2100 dresses shipped in 20 days was established.

In the four months of its operation, the plant has obtained more than 200 customers scattered over seven Southern states and the outlook for a much larger volume of business this spring are bright, the local product having proved exceptionally popular with users in all of the cities in which distribution was made. Sixteen people were employed during the fall season and it is believed that 35 probably will be required for the spring rush.

HOME WANTED FOR MANY YOUNGSTERS

If You Are Interested
Write Supervisor
Child Welfare

Santa Claus is coming! But he'll come to some homes where there are no little stockings and so he'll probably pass by.

What better Christmas gift could you give yourself than that of providing a little stocking for "Santa" to fill?

The state child welfare department has far more children than the old woman who lived in a shoe. Each and every one of them are lively happy children only waiting for some kind parents to take them into their homes and keep them for their very own.

There's Richard—not handsome, but the brightest "cutest" youngster the department has ever had. Full of fun, quick at repartee, but obedient and respectful. And Harry—just a regular boy—certain to be a successful business man, if he has his chance, because even at eight years of age one can see such traits.

Mary, a dear little five year old, with big soft brown eyes and a quaint little smile, would gladden the heart of any woman, and be a satisfying little sister for any big brother.

But they are all attractive and if you are interested just write Miss Loula Dunn, supervisor of the children's aid division, Alabama Child Welfare Department, Montgomery, for further information.

By Her Counsel

SOMERVILLE, U. J., Nov. 26.

(AP)—Felix Di Martini, employed as a private detective by Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, after the slaying of her husband and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, was sworn just before the luncheon recess in the Hall-Mills trial today.

Di Martini, who has been threatened with arrest on a warrant charging him with being an accessory after the fact of the murder, did not begin testimony but was sworn that he might be placed under the protection of the court.

He spent the luncheon recess under the custody of the sheriff and will testify during the afternoon.

George Sipel was on the stand as the hour approached for the recess, but he was withdrawn temporarily. As soon as the detective walked to the witness stand from an ante-room, Alexander Simpson, special prosecutor told Inspector Underwood to arrest him. The Jersey City police official started toward the witness but Timothy N. Poffey, Mrs. Hall's counsel, and State Senator J. Henry Harrison, Di Martini's lawyer, called attention of the court to the fact that the witness was under the protection of the court.

Di Martini then retired with a sheriff's deputy. It was believed that a warrant will be served on Di Martini when he completes his testimony and leaves the courtroom.

Senator Harrison said that when Di Martini is arrested his counsel will have three alternatives, seek an immediate hearing, apply for bail, or sue for a writ of habeas corpus.

Di Martini was arrested in Brooklyn on a warrant charging him with being an accessory to murder but was released on an order from a New York court. He has not been indicted.

Parents' Laxity And Automobile
Are "Blamed" By Salvation Army
For Loosening of The Moral Code

DENVER, Nov. 26.—(INS)—

Laxity of parents—and the automobile are the causes of the downfall of most girls in this modern age, in the opinion of Adjutant Maude Lee, of the Salvation Army.

Adjutant Lee, for many years engaged in social service work, came to Denver recently from the White Shield Home, in Portland, Ore. She will have charge of the new Woman's Home and Hospital, being constructed here by the Salvation Army for the care of maternity cases. The institution will house thirty-five girls.

"The automobile is, in my opinion, the chief contributing cause for delinquency among modern girls," Adjutant Lee said.

"Modern girls, too, mature earlier than their mothers did," she continued. And that is, of course, a result of the times. Life for the modern generation is infinitely more free than it ever was for former generations. There is very little to restrain a girl of today from acquiring information on any subject concerning which she is curious. She naturally takes advantage of the situation and has accordingly become the girl she is."

This early maturity, Miss Lee declared, has led to sex irregularities at an earlier age.

"A generation ago the women who needed the assistance of rescue missions were old enough to know better," Miss Lee said. "They were usually beyond the age of

SANTA REQUESTED TO BRING
WHEEL CHAIR TO PARALYTIC

21-Year Old Girl, Unable To Walk For 20
Years, Wants To Attend
Church Services.

There is a deep chasm between the comfortable dining rooms of Twin City homes, wherein thankful people sat themselves down, with gladness in their hearts, to partake of browned turkey and oyster dressing, to a little river houseboat, on which a 21-year old girl, paralyzed since she was six months old, lay on her cot of pain yesterday. A deep chasm and a wide one, but it can be partially bridged, at least, with a small amount of money.

Unable to use her hands or feet because of an attack of infantile paralysis more than 20 years ago, her body developed only to the extent of an immature child, her voice impeded by her physical handicaps, this girl, one would think, had little to be thankful for as the nation paused to give its thanks to Him who made all blessings possible. Yet she is thankful that her mind still is bright and eager despite her years of suffering, and that she has few opportunities to learn, she is displaying a marked thirst for knowledge of the world and of God, the creator, and of His relation to his earthly subjects.

Once every week, the Community House teacher calls at the humble home and teaches her the current Sunday school lesson. On a few occasions friends, themselves without much of material wealth, but with a wealth of kindness in their hearts, have carried this pitiful sufferer in a wagon to the Community House Sunday school. The wagon, however, has broken beneath its burden and the condition of the muddy river bank makes further excursions of this nature impossible.

So Maude spent yesterday without being able to attend a single one of the numerous Thanksgiving services in the Twin Cities.

While more fortunate ones knelt in prayer, or lent their ears to soul-inspiring messages from local pulpits, at the local churches, this sufferer lay abed and possibly wondered that it was Thanksgiving day.

Rather a pitiful picture, isn't it, and jarring to ones complacency who has just enjoyed to the utmost the feast of Thanksgiving blessings?

Not once in all her life has Maude attended services in a church. Not once has she ever attended a real Christmas tree.

Thanksgiving has gone, but Christmas is not far away. A wheel chair will enable her to attend church, a wheel chair will enable her to attend a Christmas tree, a wheel chair will enable her to get about occasionally and see the cities in which she lives. Not much to see perhaps, for those who have seen their share of the world, but much to see for one who has been confined to her bed for twenty years.

"I want Santa Claus to bring me a wheel chair," she says. Not much to ask, is it? But it means the opening of a new world to Maude. If Santa Claus should chance to read this, the Community House organization will be glad to furnish him with her address.

CROW IS ELECTED TO COUNTY BOARD IN SOCIAL AFFAIR

He Will Succeed To Place Resigned
By Malone

J. H. Crow, well known Albany business man, this morning was elected a member of the county board of education to succeed B. L. Malone, who resigned. The meeting was held at 10:30 o'clock in Hartselle.

Mr. Crow also was elected vice-president of the board.

Mr. Malone has served the county for a number of years as a member of the county school board, but his resignation was occasioned by his recent election as mayor of Albany.

Members of Decatur Lodge, No. 52, and their families had a delightful social gathering at the K. of P. hall on Bank street Thursday night.

At the close of the regular business session of the lodge the doors were thrown open to the families and friends. The meeting was presided over by W. L. Hatchett, past grand of the order who introduced Judge F. M. Hamilton of Twin City Lodge 159, who made a short but interesting address. Other addresses were made by A. P. Johnson, S. W. Foster, John A. Thomason, Joe T. Weatherly and others.

The ladies of Bessie Rebekah Lodge 61 served sandwiches and hot coffee and every one present seemed to enjoy themselves to the fullest extent. The coffee served was furnished by the Southern Coffee Company and the thanks of our lodge is extended to them for this courtesy.

Miss Blanch Buchanan gave a couple of readings that were enjoyed by every one present. Miss Mary Hamilton rendered several piano solos that delighted her hearers. Mrs. Katherine Weatherly, noble grand, of Bessie Rebekah Lodge and other members made very interesting talks.

Auburn Graduate
Has Own Invention

AUBURN, Ala., Nov. 26.—(AP)—Marvin Pipkin, a graduate of Alabama Polytechnic Institute, is credited with inventing the latest development in the Mazda electric lamp comprising a pear-shaped bulb frosted on the inside.

Several new features embodied in the new lamp are said to have improved to a great extent a lamp that authorities considered practically perfect a year ago. The new lamp was the choice of a number of architects, artists, decorators and designers as the most beautiful for all purposes, reports state.

A more perfect diffusion of light which it is claimed eliminates the objectionable glare of the old clear lamp and also unsightly shadows cast by a direct glare, is attributed to the new Mazda lamp. A soft light is cast by the lamp, causing no unnecessary strain on the eyes and it is considered especially good for reading purposes.

Doheny's Attorney In Smashing Blow at Prosecution

EXCLUSION OF
LETTER ASKED

Legal Attack On The Government's Case
Launched Today

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—

(AP)—The defense in the Fall-Doheny oil conspiracy trial thrust repeatedly today at the very heart of the case government attorneys are trying to build up against Edward L. Doheny and Albert B. Fall.

Not only did the defense attorneys demand that the court exclude the testimony given before the senate oil committee, relied upon by the prosecution to show that $100,000 passed between the oil man and the then secretary of the interior, but they made a smashing attack upon the whole government plan of campaign.

Arguing in the absence of the jury, Frank J. Hogan, counsel for Doheny, said that although the defendants were indicted for conspiracy to execute two contracts and one oil land lease, between July 1, 1921, and December 11, 1922, the prosecution had not confined itself to evidence based on action in that period.

He read statutes in support of his contention that the law required a trial procedure, which established the alleged conspiracy by one overt act before the offer of circumstantial evidence was made.

Hogan likewise argued for exclusion of a letter from Fall to the senate committee, December 6, 1923, in which the $100,000 transaction was touched upon.

Frank J. Hogan began for the defense with a review of the senate action, which culminated in the oil committee investigation, read from the printed record of the senate hearings touching the $100,000 transaction, which described as "Mr. Doheny's testimony resumed."

DENIES HIS ARREST
AT FISHING CAMP

Castleman Asserts
No Bond Required
After the Raid

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 26.—(AP)—

David R. Castleman, Louisville attorney, who, with his brother, Will, and Addison Smith, vice president of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, were reported arrested at a camp near Bay Minette, Ala., Monday, along with Governor W. W. Brandon, of Alabama, and five others, today denied that he had been arrested.

According to reports from Bay Minette, court records showed that the campers were placed under bond of $300 each and hearing for December 6, after deputies searched the camp and reported finding several quarts of whiskey.

Mr. Castleman said the deputies found some whiskey in the assembly room at the camp.

"I do not know to whom the liquor belonged as there were about 15 or 20 guests at the camp, although the men mentioned were the only ones in the camp at the time. The officers were courteous to us. We gave them our names when they requested, but they did not arrest us. We are not under bond, nor were we even cited. Reports to the contrary are untrue. At first I believed the raid to be a practical joke and not until I saw a newspaper did I learn otherwise," Castleman said.

Wind Fails To Do Damage In Twin Cities

High winds, which were felt in the Twin Cities during the early morning hours, failed to do any damage, so far as investigation had developed today.

The winds, at one time, were accompanied by heavy downpours of rains, but aside from leaving the streets littered with great quantities of leaves, little noticeable results were evident this morning of the evening's "blow."

Reports received here during the morning did not indicate any extensive damage to crops, but there were some reports of cotton blown from the stalks and ruined on the ground.

Site for the Connecticut Mills company will be known within the next few days, is the opinion given today by officers of the local holding company which agreed to establish a $600,000 building if the manufacturing heads decided to take this site for their southern plant.

Officers are working continuously in an effort to close all details but have refused to make any statement regarding the actual site until all matters have been concluded.

Meanwhile, local people are watching for the site announcement with intense interest, feeling that with the announcement of the site that activities in many lines will be increased.

Stricken Cities

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 26.—

(AP)—Seventy persons are known to have been killed and more than 100 injured in a series of tornadoes which swept into Arkansas late yesterday from the northwest, through the Ozark mountains and after taking toll in half a dozen communities in that state, nipped into three other states, Missouri, Louisiana and Mississippi.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 26.—

(AP)—A steadily mounting death list and extensive property damage today lay in the wake of the series of tornadoes that twisted their way through parts of three states last night.

Reports trickling in today told of 56 dead and scores injured in Arkansas, Louisiana and Missouri and an undetermined property damage.

The little town of Heber Springs, in north-central Arkansas, bore the brunt of the storm, which took a total of 19 dead and nearly a score of injured there. Messengers arriving in Kensett, Ark., from the Ozarks foothills town, to seek additional aid, reported half the towns in ruins.

Fourteen other deaths were reported from Arkansas, five from Opello, eight from Moscow, and one from Sheridan. Mer Rouge, La., reported seven casualties and Haynesville, La., five. One man was killed at Knob View, Mo., where several buildings were razed and Big Tiney, Mo., was virtually wiped off the map, according to information received here. Only one building, a hotel, was left standing at the latter place.

The storm, apparently an intensification of the disturbance which has been pushing eastward from the Pacific coast, struck with its greatest fury in central Arkansas and then moved north through the center of the state to Missouri, where it brought death and destruction to widely scattered communities. An off-shoot also caused considerable damage in Louisiana. Heavy rains accompanied the twister.

Three relief trains, two from Kensett, Ark., and one from Searcy, reached Heber Springs last night. One of the trains was sent back to Kensett today for additional medical aid and brought reports of half the town wrecked with fire which came in the wake of the wind, adding to the destruction.

Governor Terrell, of Arkansas, this morning was endeavoring to communicate with Cleburne county officials, to determine the extent of state aid needed. Meanwhile a report was awaited from Major Sam C. Herrin, of the Arkansas national guard, who was ordered to the stricken section last night to make a survey of the situation.

The Pulaski county chapter of the Red Cross was ready today to send aid and the Missouri-Pacific announced that preparations had been made to outfit a special train of relief here.

Communication with Belleville, Ark., still was impossible today but reports from Paris, northwest of there, were that only a few were injured.

Miss Bloodworth

Miss Clutie Bloodworth, supervisor of exceptional education for the Alabama educational department, arrived last night to spend the holidays with her mother, Mrs. Mary Bloodworth.

Miss Bloodworth has been busy several weeks lining up adult schools for various counties in the state. In most instances the schools are backed by the women's federated clubs of the community. Last spring a number of schools were held and hundreds of adults taught to read and write.

Gould Answers Election Charges

AUGUSTA, Maine, Nov. 26. — (AP) — Charges of excessive primary campaign expenditures against Arthur Gould, republican nominee for the United States senate, were laid at the door of Governor Ralph O. Brewster and the Ku Klux Klan by counsel for Gould.

At the opening of a hearing on Gould's campaign expenses, Gould's attorney said that Governor Brewster had conferred with Imperial Wizard Evans concerning prosecution of the charges.

Farm Relief At Shoals Is Urged

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. — (AP) — Utilization of Muscle Shoals power plant for the relief of agriculture and for the production of power only as a by-product, was advocated before President Coolidge today by O. E. Bradfute, former president of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Mr. Bradfute thought that the present time was to relieve the agricultural classes which could best be done by reducing agriculture cost.

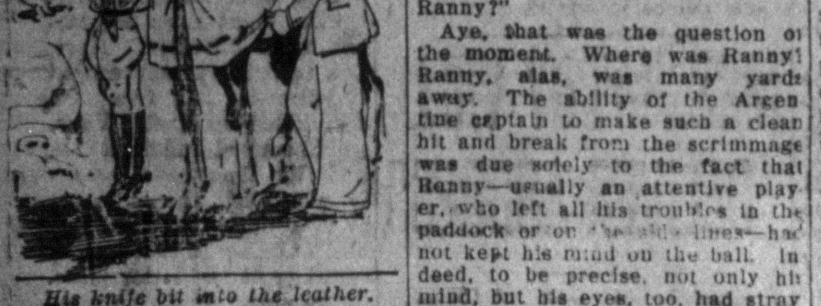

"DON'T TELL THE WIFE," starring Irene Rich, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

The stubborn tempers of Ranny Forbes, star polo player, and his beautiful wife, Joan, result in clashes that furnish society with choice gossip. Joan scents a divorce; but Ranny avows to his chum, Clay, that he loves her. Worse, he has secretly discovered that she is in love with another man, Abner Grattman, a lumber king with whom Ranny has been negotiating a gigantic business deal, wagers fifty thousand on Ranny's team in the Westbury Cup Match. Victory will mean business gold will. Ranny learns that the wager is with Abner Grattman! Ranny's phenomenal playing interests even his wife, Abner, jealous, plots viciously to undo him.

CHAPTER II
The echoes of the timing bell, signaling the second chukker, pinned the rapt attention of every spectator to the field. Every spectator, that is, saving one. Abner Grattman, sinking along with just a race, answering at his heart, reached the paddock without having attracted undue attention. He totally escaped Stivner, who had gone in search of him up the less conspicuous front row.

Abner found Ranny's convoluted pantan cock of a groom detailing an assistant to hold the bride of Milkmaid, who was saddled and ready under a blanket, while he walked upstream Judy off to rub her a bit and blanket her and rest her for the fourth chukker.

Here was luck. The assistant would be easier to fool. Abner reared himself alongside the lad in an ingratiatingly democratic way. "Farm playing, eh?" "I'll tell the cross-eyed world!"

His knife bit into the leather.

enthusied the flattered boy, though he really had neither the intention nor the means to carry out his none too modest promise.

Abner snifled in covert disgust at this yoked homestead, but he took advantage of the absorbed interest it represented. The boy, disarmed by Abner's friendliness and entranced by the furious swirl of the game he adored, was innocently unaware of what the society man beside him was doing. Nonchalantly resting against the side of Milkmaid, one arm under her saddle so as to hide with his body his actions from the idle or casual glances of any of the nearby hostlers, Abner worked persistently and carefully with his other arm under Milkmaid's blanket, sawing the blade of his knife across the stirrup strap until a slimy film of leather held the stirrup. The first severe strain—and—blow!

"Lookit Mr. Forbes ride 'em off from the goal, sir! Lookit that swivel!" exclaimed the boy. "Gosh, he sure kept 'em from scorin' that time!"

But Abner, having completed his nefarious design, walked off now, ignoring the boy as he would a worm, and the crestfallen lad wondered in pained fashion at the social inconsistency of the elite.

Seven and a half minutes of a rushing defiance of bonebreak drawing to a close. Rough riding that sent hair-raising prickles over the scalps of spectators. Team work that thrilled the expert; sensational strokes, passes long and short that thrilled the laymen; hits and rallies everywhere, but not a goal chalked up, largely because the efforts of either team to work the ball into positions that afforded favorable angles for shots were aborted by the yipping Cossacks of the opposing side, causing a general hurrying of shots and goal trips from too great distances. Even as Abner strolled away from the paddock the bell clanged its brisk recall of the players for their hard earned three minute interlude.

Ranny, boyishly aflame with his eager passion for the game, was too impatient to rest. He merely dismounted from Firebug, vaulted upon Milkmaid and trotted out upon the field again. Clay ranged into pace with him, and said:

"Just overheard Stivner trying to increase the bet. Grattman hedged. By the way, I noticed that you and Stivner had quite a confab after the first chukker. He seems to

Romance Problems of Real People

The Pair That Broke Royalty's Rules

Analyzed by Anne Jordan.

QUEEN-TO-BE. Two Photos of Princess Astrid of Sweden, Whose or Coming Marriage to the Future King of Belgium Is One of the Few Royal Love Matches on Record.

THE recently announced engagement of the Princess Astrid of Sweden and Crown Prince Leopold of Belgium was proclaimed a real love match, instead of a marriage arranged by patriotic statesmen. The royal engagement was greeted with joyous acclaim, for it is not often, even in this day of democratized monarchies, that a prince or princess can marry by choice, rather than for political convenience.

Many people believe—and sympathize with him—that the Prince of Wales is deferring his marriage as long as he possibly can because he cannot marry whom he pleases. Prince Carol of Roumania renounced a throne in order to take the woman of his choice, and there are many other instances.

Of course, the situation is not as bad as it is used to be. Time was when a future king or queen was merely a pawn in the chess game of diplomatic geography. Nobody asked a prince, "How do you like your Cousin Tessie?" No, sir. The old boys with the swinging chin tassels and the stars on the chest grouped around the budding monarch and announced: "Cousin Tessie has a chance to bring your country a patch of land with an oil well on it; go on, marry the girl." While to poor Cousin Tessie they said: "That kid's going to be king of Rumania. What does it matter if he's got St. Vitus dance and one eye squints?" Cousin Tessie may have kicked and fought, but she was dressed in ten-pound velvet and shoved down the aisle anyway.

And after her marriage, Tessie had to walk a chalk line and play her part. Of course, the kings didn't have such a hard time of it. One could be a morganatic sugar daddy to a pretty face, and "the king can do no wrong." But the queens, like Caesar's wife, had to be above "suspicion." Why, even Catherine de Medici didn't have any fun until her old man vanished from the picture. And that other immortal Catherine of Russia was meek as a Spring lamb until she got her boy friend, King Peter, killed off.

Now, of course, princes and princesses CAN take the bit in their teeth and refuse to marry Cousin Tessie or Cousin Ignatz, and they show their spirit by renouncing thrones every now and then, rather than permit a secretary of state to map out their married life.

When Prince Leopold courted Princess Astrid he visited the country home of the Princess's family disgraced as a servant. He traveled third class on the railway, and carried his own handbag to the royal house. Even the gossip villagers who saw him assumed he was merely a butler or panty-man. Thus the royal pair fooled 'em all.

courts of other sections would accept this action as an appropriate precedent, and if the members of a few more mobs could be brought to trial and convicted as quickly, only ninety days from the time of the lynching, the effect on future cases of possible mob activities would be pronounced. Men who know that they are taking the chance of serving a long sentence in the penitentiary are not going to attempt to take the law into their own hands, not even if there is a certain amount of excitement and wrath created by the

in the past, to please every faction in a fight for roads. But service on the commission during the coming term will offer tremendous opportunity for real service to the state of Alabama.—Tuscaloosa News.

A real jolt was dealt to lynch law this week when a Georgia judge pronounced a life sentence upon the leader of a mob which gave summary justice to a murderer and passed sentences ranging from four to twenty years on seven other members of the mob. If the Governor-Elect Bibb Graves has just announced the completion of Alabama's new highway board which is to be headed by Judge Woolsey Finnell of Tuscaloosa. Having named Judge Finnell for the appointment as chairman of the highway commission, it is said to be the plan of the governor-elect to ask the state legislature to make him chief engineer of that commission as well, combining the two positions.

Henry J. Law of Andalusia and John S. Turner of Anniston are to be the associate members on the highway commission, it is said. Mr. Law is a member of the board of revenue of Covington county, while Mr. Turner has represented manufacturers of road machinery since Alabama started her road building program and has been engaged in the contracting business. Landon G. Smith of Tuscaloosa is one of the retiring members of the commission.

Certainly in his choice of Judge Finnell the governor-elect has picked a man highly capable of filling the position. Service as a member of the board of revenue of Covington county doubtless has given Mr. Law an insight into the problem of roads as it affects the average resident of the rural sections, and Mr. Turner's experience in road matters and in contracting should be extremely valuable to the state.

There is no mistaking the fact that the coming road commission has before it one of the biggest problems Alabama faces. At times it will be impossible for the new commission, as has been the case deed of some criminal. It is extremely infrequent that the officers charged with the custody of a prisoner do not recognize at least a few members of a mob in the event one takes the law unto itself, and when officers refuse to shield such men and the courts require that they pay the penalty there is very likely to occur a cessation of mob violence.—Florence Times-News.

For the same period last year Limestone showed 32,424 bales, thus making a gain of over 5,000 over the previous year. Quite a considerable amount of the product still remains in the fields, and a prophecy of 45,000 bales would not appear too large for the present year.

PROPER SHOES A HELP TO GOOD HEALTH

Difference in Anatomy Between Men and Women the Main Cause of Backache, but if Properly
Shod, This Condition Often Disappears

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

THERE is one symptom more than any other which comes to plague the women of the world. I refer to backache. Of course, men have the backache, too, but not nearly so often as women do. It is rare indeed to find a woman who does not suffer more or less from this disagreeable ailment. Some women are so affected by it that they are unhappy most of the time.

The reason why women are more likely to have the symptom than men is because of the difference in the anatomy. The pelvic organs of women are liable to displacement and congestion. In every such case backache is likely to be one of the symptoms. Needless to say, there can be no permanent relief of the trouble without correction of the pelvic disturbance, whatever that may be.

The nervous system of women is more delicate than that of men. Their muscles are not so firm and tireless. They are more easily upset by trying conditions and fatiguing effort than men are.

Whenever there is great fatigue, or for that matter any fatigue, backache is likely to be observed. One of the first parts of the body to feel the disturbance are the muscles of the back.

It may be that another reason why women have backache more than men is on account of the shoes they wear. Excessively high heels throw the spine out of adjustment and put unusual strain upon the back muscles. Anything that causes a muscle to be put under tension continuously will produce congestion. Pain is sure to be one of the symptoms.

We turned a lot about the human body as a result of the examinations in the selective draft during the war. In looking over the reports of these examinations, it is interesting to observe the prevalence of certain conditions. In this connection it is surprising to find how many young men have flat feet. This was a very common defect.

Unless properly adjusted shoes are worn where flat foot is present, there is a certain strain on the muscles of the legs and pain may be a symptom. Weakness in the foot may be responsible for pain in the legs and then in the back.

BUGHOUSE FABLE

Helpful Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl sixteen years old and am in love with a man of thirty-nine. He has been calling at my home, and I thought it was to see me. However, the other night he came in his car and my mother informed me that she was going out to ride with him.

I want my mother to be happy, but I am broken-hearted. What can I do?

PLEASE ANSWER ME.

DEAR ANNE: Of course, you know you aren't in the least broken-hearted. You are just a little girl who has mistaken an admiration for a man old enough to be her father, for love. It will be several years before real love comes to you. In the meantime be happy if your mother has found happiness. Let me suggest that hereafter you use a little better judgment. What could a man nearly forty, find to interest him in a young girl of sixteen? He probably likes you a great deal, and would rather like to have you for a daughter. I don't want to seem too harsh, but you must learn to evaluate your romantic effervescence at its true worth.

Defends Gangster On Murder Charge

A New York court appointed a 21-year-old woman attorney to defend a gangster held for murder. It has been little more than a half century since there was scarcely a position in the business world open to women. Now every profession has thrown wide its doors, and the women who enter are welcomed and respected.

As women realize this they are making themselves more capable by looking first of all to their health. And for many years women have been using St. Joseph's G. F. P., to keep them in condition.

Among the many women now using this vegetable compound is Mrs. Adele Bruni, who makes her home at 613 South St., San Antonio, Texas. She says: "I was in such a general run-down condition I was afraid I would have to give up my work.

"Then I started using St. Joseph's G. F. P. The first bottle helped me so much I kept right on using this medicine and I am now on my third bottle.

"I feel just dandy and haven't missed a day from work in a long time. I think every woman who works should know about G. F. P. (18)

TODAY From The Daily of 12 Years Ago November 26, 1914.

Thanksgiving Day falling on November 26, 1914, there was no issue of the Daily of that date.

Fifty the street sweeper, the most he ever gets out of his work is dust.

Santa Claus has never run for public office, his friends haven't urged him.

Don't bite your neighbor, leave that for the friendly dog to do.

Cotton yield this year furnished the same old thought, "all dressed up and no place to go."

A hick town is a place weeds are killed by winter weather.

Roads must be hard to build, see how difficult it is to get them?

Buying at home may bring you that needed raise the first of the year.

Getting away to a rapid start has won for folks just like it has been a factor on the race tracks.

How's your stomach progressing after that Thanksgiving feed?

The least said about the unfortunate affair which placed Governor W. W. Brandon in his present condition, the better.

There are ways and means for controlling troublesome children, but nobody dares to tell the parents.

There is always a way to get out of working at the job, the trouble with the younger generation apparently is a lack in hunting ways to get in.

Let's not go to sleep on this job of lighting the river bridge, that's going to be something we are all proud of.

Buying the very best to be obtained away from home is nothing compared to the sense of loyalty felt when trading at home.

We'll give Illinois another day to break into the crime news heads, the Illini seem to furnish an excellent news source.

Many a young man's heart has become burdened with love affairs, but father wishes the youngster's head might become burdened with business affairs.

The difference between boasting and boasting is difficult to define, but did you ever notice how boring an egotistical person becomes?

Eight hours for business, eight hours for boosting your cities, eight hours for sleep should make you fit to enjoy the last eight hours.

Now the "Do your Christmas Shopping Early" advocates will certainly have an inning all their own.

There are plenty of ways leading to success, but you won't stop at a quiet hamlet called "Baziness" on any of the routes.

Accident insurance agents should be on their toes to opportunity at this time of the year, there is always a mad rush for bargain counters.

Secretary Jardine is going to bare some of the facts concerning the cotton situation in a radio address on Saturday evening. Seems that farmers have already learned the bare facts.

Well, the Daily had a pretty good Thanksgiving, plenty to eat, plenty to think about, but no new thoughts developed upon how best to get Second Avenue paved. We have tried all angles but the right angle, perhaps that's just around the corner.

You can't get by the women, see where a Shelby county farmer used profanity in the presence of the wife of his landlord and was chased by a mob. He should have used better finesse and at least kept his mouth shut when near his landlord's wife. His rent certainly will increase.

More construction activity on here to the square inch than at any other place in the state of Alabama outside of Birmingham. Mobile could be the only possible exception but at the same time, let us congratulate Anniston, Selma, Albany-Decatur, the Tri-Cities, Tuscaloosa, Gadsden and other progressive cities and towns of the state. They are all contributing handsomely to the fine upbuilding of the state as a whole. Huntsville Daily Times.

FAIR PLAY AND AN UNFORTUNATE OCCURRENCE.

Governor William W. Brandon and a party of friends were arrested on prohibition violation charges a few days ago down in south Alabama, while on a recreational trip. When the governor and other prominent men were arrested there was a newspaper man with the officers to tell the story to the world.

The Daily is certainly not averse to publishing news of the sort telling of the arrest of prominent officials, that is part of the newspaper work, that's partly why the public reads the newspapers. However, this charge against Governor Brandon looks much more like a pre-arranged affair than the mere happening of an officer upon a cache of contraband goods.

Governor Brandon has been persecuted, persecuted, persecuted since he went into the governor's chair, with one of the biggest jobs in this state to tackle. Governor Brandon has been worried with all sorts of attacks, yet he holds the love and esteem of his people. His opposition will not deny that Bill Brandon is still Plain Bill to the people.

Governor Brandon's administration may not have produced everything in the world for the state of Alabama, neither has it been the worst administration by any means. Take for an instance the things going on in this end of the state, have they not been sanctioned by Governor Brandon? Were these wheels of progress not turned by men who went into office with the Brandon regime? Is that all bad record?

The newspaper man at the time of the unfortunate occurrence was on the ground, he got the story first and got it right, more laurels in his crown, the world likes a go-getter, but how did he know so much about where and when these arrests were going to take place, if the affair was not pre-arranged?

The occurrence looks more like the direct result of the framing of the governor of an excellent state, a state which does not relish disgrace. Governor Brandon and his machine were defeated in the last election, it seems that such a turn in affairs would be sufficient for his enemies. They have won in the bigger game, there is no reason why they should resort to smaller things just to injure a good man and a great state. Other states will tell the story among one another, newspapers from one end of the nation to the other will decide public opinion regarding Bill Brandon and they do not yet know all the facts in the case. Governor Brandon has but a short while in office, let him conduct his affairs without hindrances which amount to nothing, let him direct the state of Alabama with the best of his ability.

THE DRIFT AWAY FROM THE FARM, MORE TO BE HEARD.

Farmers, farmers' daughters, farmers' sons are drifting away from the farm, going to the cities where there is more to be had than a dreary life of the farm, getting a substantial income for the work they are doing.

Speaking of the situation the Selma Times-Journal finds the following:

According to some interesting statistics promulgated by the U. S. department of agriculture American girls are following or at least desire to follow the boys to the cities. Questionnaires sent out by the department show that only 4.3 per cent of girls and boys now dwelling in rural communities prefer farming as their life work. An unusual feature of the answers is that they come from boys and girls who are already listed as members of agricultural clubs. These figures and percentages certainly indicate that the work does not inspire the young people to follow pursuits in which they are now for a time enlisted.

It has been noted for sometime that there is a steady flow of young women into the cities, even showing a stronger propensity to get away from their rural environment than do the young men. Since women have found opportunities in business and professional life, the girls from the farm have flocked to town to get jobs. It is a fact that a large percentage of the girls in offices, in stores, in factories and other establishments employing women, originated on the farms. Girls have even a greater incentive for leaving their country homes and taking up life in the cities than have the boys. The female of the species today is dead set against doing housework, and the ambition of the average young woman is to find some way to dodge housekeeping. The average farm home is not well equipped with conveniences and there is still much drudgery in the farm home for the women. Hence the flight, to town, to work in the restaurant, the shop, the office, or anything that presents an opportunity that looks more alluring than the uneventful routine of the farm.

But this immigration drift need not occasion any undue alarm for the perpetuity of our economic institutions. Scientific methods of production will in time release more and more of the rural population for other forms of employment and enterprise. One hundred years ago 85 per cent of the people were engaged in agriculture. This percentage has steadily declined. The necessity for maintaining such a large army of recruits on the farm no longer exists. Science will in time still further lessen the need of these delvers in the earth. The time will come when one man with improved equipment and resources and knowledge on the farm can produce what five or ten men now accomplish.

This cotton situation will undoubtedly bring new complications in farm labor and the numbers of people who are leaving the farm lands of the South and of America. The cotton situation has caused many farmers to think that there is absolutely no reason why they should stick to a life that brings no monetary reward for the long days of effort. You cannot blame the farmer for thinking that way at all. He is not unlike other human beings, he can see only the difficulty, only the trials, only the misery and the want. If you as a business man, or as a clerk, or whatever your vocation, failed to make a living at what you were doing then you certainly would not stick to that job for long at a time, would you? Certainly not; then you cannot expect the farmer to stick to the same plan year after year when he is just as human as the rest of us.

See where Willie Stevens, defendant in the Hall-Mills murder case, has startled the courts with his ready wit. Poor Willie, how much better had he been allowed to lead his own life, away from the front pages of every newspaper in the land, venting his ready wit upon those who could appreciate it.

Consolidation of small cities and towns, like combinations of capital, are becoming frequent. It is proposed now to consolidate Gadsden, Attalla and Alabama City, giving the combination and estimated population of 40,000 and making it in size the fourth city in Alabama, ranking next to Montgomery. Other consolidations of important Alabama municipalities which have been proposed are those of Sheffield with Tusculum, and Albany with Decatur. —Montgomery Advertiser.

OVER SUNDAY TOURISTS

Today:

By ARTHUR BRISBANE. (Copyright, 1926, by The Star Co., For Albany-Decatur Daily).

In offering Mr. Brisbane's daily editorials The Daily does not necessarily concur with his opinions, but offers them as the sentiments of the highest paid editorial writer in this country.

GRANDMOTHER BRITAIN is growing old. The war tired her, with its killed and wounded, its billions of debts, millions of unemployed, and disastrous strikes following. The dominions are young, strong and growing. Now each dominion is made officially the equal of Great Britain. The colonies and Britain form an alliance, not an empire with British ruling.

BUT the colonies are not officially Britain's equals. They will outgrow and dominate her in time and old England will come to be the European banking office of Canada, South Africa and Australia. But the old British mother still has the brains, trained statesmen, great universities and thinking men. Those things mean empire, whatever you may say officially.

THE sister of the Wright Brothers is married to H. J. Haskell of the Kansas City Star, and concerning her, you learn what is true of millions of unknown sisters. That the Wright Brothers' sister was a great part of the Wright Brothers' strength.

SHE taught school, and when nobody would invest money "in their foolish flying machine" she gave all of hers. When the school closed she sat down to sew silk, cotton and canvas to cover wings of model gliders tested by her brothers.

The world hears of Renan's devoted sister, of the sister of the Astronomer Herschel studying the stars for him at night, and the sister of Augustus, wife of the rascal Marc Antony, one of the greatest of the great Roman women.

But millions of self-sacrificing sisters live and die unknown. WILLIAM, alias Willie, alias Dan alias Dominick Baggio "was taken for a ride." In Chicago this means that you never come back.

Raggio, gang man, bootlegger, hijacker, all around modernist, "bumped off a couple" in a saloon. He got twenty-five years. His lawyer, who got him out on bail, might better have left him in.

Friends took him for a ride and his body, very neatly dressed, was found under a pile of ashes. Criminals sometimes do what the law seems unable to do.

president of Nicaragua should be told to train his own army, while the United States minds its business here at home. Let them fight out their fights, as we did. Let the best man win, then recognize him.

AMERICA reads with horror that Russia proposes to "abolish all legal difference between registered and unregistered marriages." There is no danger, however, of marriage being entirely wiped out. Women will see to that, in Russia and everywhere. They have learned by sad experience that men are bad enough, even with marriage laws to tie them down.

SHE changed her mind afterward, naturally. Any American girl whose father buys her a duke for seven million dollars is apt to find the price too high. But that is hardly a reason for declaring null and void a marriage legally performed, of which children and grandchildren are now in existence. The Catholic church undoubtedly has some other reason for the annulment not yet divulged.

THE president of Nicaragua asks the United States for army officers to train his army and help him stamp out any danger or revolt.

Seventeen hundred seventy-six isn't so far away, and this country is not one to turn up its nose at the word "revolution." We tried it successfully. The

The Views of Others

The Value of The Curb Market To The Farmer and Housewife Is Shown.

The Calhoun county Curb Market in Anniston is proving a boon to many Calhoun county farmers, giving them a means for adding to their incomes and affording an outlet at good prices for many farm products for which they formerly found little or no demand.

The announcement by County Farm Agent Doughty that $18,000 worth of farm produce has been sold on the Curb Market during the past six months shows to what an extent the market is serving the farmers and to what extent it is adding to their incomes. It should be taken into consideration that the time during which the $18,000 worth of produce was being sold here, the farmers had nothing else to sell. Their farm crops were in the making and it was only the things that could be sold on the Curb Market that they could look to for ready money.

In helping out during a period when the farm income is the lowest the Curb Market serves perhaps its best purpose. But it is not purely a dull period affair. The market is an all-the-year one and every market day finds its wares of such character that buyers are eager to obtain them.

Nor is the Curb Market a benefit to the farmer alone. Many Anniston housewives will testify to the fact that they have found the Curb Market a convenience that they could not care now to do without. It has enabled them to procure fresh farm produce without being compelled to take chances on it being peddled to them from wagons and has saved the annoyance of looking in many stores for what they can find readily at hand in the market.

With a shelter to enable buying and selling to be done comfortably in severe weather, the Curb Market should continue through all the winter to be a convenience to Anniston people and a decided financial benefit to Calhoun farmers. —Anniston Star.

The Wheels of The Law

This year may very properly go down in the annals, as far as the criminal courts are concerned, as the year of ghosts, a year in which it would seem that every old case stuck away in the morgues of criminology has been brought out and paraded.

The latest is the Fall-Doheny oil lease scandal, the famous Teapot Dome case of four years ago. The Daugherty case, recently relegated to the background, was another of the four-year-old kind, and the Hall-Mills murder, another famous case of the vintage of 1922 is now in full swing.

Even in our own state, the Davis case and the prison cruelties arising were old enough to have whiskers on them.

It all goes to show how slowly the wheels of justice grind.

In the meantime new scandals and crimes are being perpetrated to be threshed out, in all probability four years hence. —Gadsden Times.

There's A Reason Why Some Saw Mills Fail To Make A Profit.

There are business men, business concerns and individuals generally who do not make a profit on their activities. So it is with saw mills and other industries just because there is lacking of that something which spells profit.

Alabama State Commission of Forest has it figured out after this fashion and says that many saw mills fail to make profit because of the excessive cost of handling small logs, according to data recently compiled by the Alabama Commission of Forestry. Practically all lumbermen have observed that it costs much more to fell, cut up, bunch, skid and haul a thousand feet of material in the form of small sticks than it does when the same amount is comprised in a lesser number of large logs.

It is not only in the logging costs of small trees, however, that profits are eaten up, but the sawing, piling and loading of the lumber also cost more per thousand feet than in the case of the larger boards and dimension stock from good sized trees. Trees under twelve inches in diameter at the height of a man's breast can only be sawed into such small material that every process in the utilization of such trees is accompanied by costs of operation considerably in excess of those pertaining to more mature timber.

Another element cutting into the saw mill profits in the case of small timber is the fact that the sawed material grades very low. The greater proportion of clear lumber is found in the larger trees, and if the operator works up small logs, almost exclusively he has very little of the higher priced products to put on the market. —Huntsville Daily Times.

Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth. Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Moulton News

MOULTON, Ala., Nov. 26. — (Special) — Miss Cora Pearson, state supervisor of elementary schools, is in Lawrence the first part of the week visiting as many schools of the various types as she can with Mrs. Mary McKel, the county supervisor. Miss Pearson's work is to give suggestions and help through the county supervisor mainly, to the numerous young teachers as well as to help the county supervisors in their work; her years of service in the Florence State Normal and later as supervisor of the Montgomery county schools enables her to bring suggestions rich in inspiration and helpfulness to the teachers. The teachers of the county have profited by the efficient supervision given them by the supervisors during the past few years and the good effects of supervision are being seen even though the terms of the schools are short. It is being realized more and more that supervision is worth while even as all large business concerns find it true where many workmen are employed.

Though late in the season there is still hope the highway west from Moulton toward Landersville may be surfaced enough to keep it passable; the two miles beginning in the corporate limits of the town are already well graded and orders have been given, it is said, to begin rock-paving as soon as the work on the road leading south of town through Wren and to the Alabama Forest is completed which will be within a few days of good weather. The road leading west, for the first mile, is now in bad condition and rain will put it past completion this winter.

Dr. and Mrs. A. S. Byars and Master Albert Jr., leave Wednesday to spend the Thanksgiving season with Dr. and Mrs. S. R. Sanders, at Cuth in south Alabama. They expect to return Saturday or Sunday. Dr. and Mrs. Sanders made their home in Moulton for several years and are pleasantly remembered by the people of the town.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. L. Byars and children spent Saturday and Sunday in Hartselle and Morgan county. While in Hartselle, Mr. Byars attended the good road meeting held there Saturday afternoon; as representative in the State Legislature from Lawrence, he is interested in good road problems and laws.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Stewart entertained the county high school faculty at a 6 o'clock dinner last Friday evening; the citizens of the town are co-operating fully with the teachers in the effort to get the best results from a combined school interest.

Traffic Code To Be Adopted Soon

The new traffic code for the City of Albany may be brought before the council at the regular meeting Friday, December 3. Roy Billings, chairman of the police committee, is at work on the new code and declared today he hoped to have the draft in readiness for discussion at the next meeting of the aldermen.

Morgan County Boys Win First in Both State Fairs.

By J. C. FORD, County Agent

The announcement has just come to me that Morgan county's corn club exhibit won first place at both the Birmingham and Montgomery State fairs. The news is late coming, but I am sure the Morgan county friends of our club boys will be glad to hear this news, even though it comes late.

Those who attended the North Alabama fair at Albany-Decatur will remember the excellent exhibit of the club boys. The corn which won high honor for Morgan county and these boys was taken from the best of this exhibit, except for one exhibit of ten ears specially selected for the State fair by Joseph Barellitt of Woodland Mills. The state exhibit was made up of ten exhibits of ten ears each. The ten boys taking part and the varieties of corn are as follows: Leroy corn, Arthur and Aubrey France, Union Hill school, Somerville, route four; Weekley corn, Lucius Oden, Ryan school, Price Bean, Priceville school, and Leon Turney, Gandy's Cove school; Hastings prolific corn, Omer and Homer Brown, Dripping Springs school, Lacon route one, Joseph and Bennie Barellitt, Woodland Mills school and Howard Weaver, Gandy's Cove school.

Last year, in individual competition, Tyrus Briscoe of Ryan won first in Prolific corn and Sweet-stakes of the show at Montgomery, and Bud Murphy of Woodland Mills won second. Two years ago, Curry Arrington, of Eva, won first in Prolific corn and F. D. Smith, also of Eva, won fifth place. Thus for three successive years, Morgan county corn club boys have won first honors in ten-car exhibits in State wide contests.

CONSIDERS SHE MADE WISE MOVE

When She Took Friends Advice and Tried the Great Herbal Remedy Known As Herb Juice

"I feel that I made a very wise move when I at last listened to the advice of one of my friends and started taking your wonder-herb extract known as Herb Juice, because it has certainly relieved me of a stubborn case of constipation and dizzy headaches of years standing," said Miss Clara Feuchet who resides at 308 South High street, Belleville, Ill., when she called to see the special representative at Reis Drug Store very recently.

In further relating her story of her condition before she had taken the great herbal remedy Miss Feuchet said, "for a number of years I have been a victim of the dreaded malady, constipation and from this badly constipated condition suffered a great deal from violent headaches which caused me to be very dizzy, nervous and irritable and was very restless at night. I tried all the different kinds of medicines and remedies that I could hear of, but without anything more than temporary relief. At last one day a friend of mine who had taken your great herb laxative insisted that I try it and said that it would do me good. I went straightway and got a bottle and before I had finished taking this great remedy I could see a decided change in my condition. I continued taking it and today I can truthfully say that I feel better in every respect than I have in years. My constipation has been entirely eliminated. I never suffer any more from those splitting headaches and I can now sleep the whole night through and arise in the morning feeling physically fit to perform my daily tasks. I can't say enough in praise of this great remedy to justify the real genuine good it has done me, and I am truly glad to make this public statement in the hope that other sufferers may be induced to try it, because I am sure they will derive the same wonderful benefit from its use that I have."

Heavy Storm Is Observers Idea

Although there is no weather vane at the United States Government observatory here and no means for recording wind velocity, it was the opinion of Mrs. A. H. Irons today that the wind sweeping this section early this morning was one of the heaviest in years. Mrs. Irons added that she had not heard of any wind damage.

Local Men Are Trinity Visitors

Small Damage Is Telephone Report

Only a very slight damage was done to wire circuits in this territory, said J. B. Cassels, district manager today when asked if the high wind of Friday morning had caused great damage. Mr. Cassels stated that only one circuit was out for a short time in the Memphis section.

Will Spanable To Conduct Program

An extra large crowd is expected at prayer services in Southside Baptist church this evening. The program will be in charge of Will Spanable, superintendent of the Sunday school, and the Sunday school officers and teachers will, with prayers and plans, seek a record breaking attendance next Sunday. The goal is 300 present. Special prayer meetings on behalf of the revival which is to begin Sunday and in which Dr. W. F. Yarborough is to do the preaching, will be held Friday night.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR

Beats Electric or Gas
A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94 per cent air and 6 per cent common kerosene (coal oil). The inventor, T. G. Johnson, 603 W. Lake St., Chicago, Ill., is offering to send a lamp on 10 day's FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency and without experience or money, make $250 to $500 per month. Adv.

What is news, anyway?

That depends a good deal on you. If you're one type of person, news is divorces, and murders, and heir-to-millions-hangs-self. If you're another type, news is closing quotations on the stock exchange. If you're somebody else, news is final scores at the ball-field or rack-track.

But no matter what type of person you are, news is also information about the things you need and use in your every-day life. If there's a new style in coats or shoes or gloves—that's news. If there's a new type of vacuum cleaner or radio battery or vitamin—that's news. If there are improvements in automobiles, new records for the player piano, a better tooth paste—that's news.

You get all this news in the shape of advertisements. It's pretty important, advertising is. It keeps you informed about all kinds of things you need to know. It helps you. It saves you time and mistakes.
